As editors, our approach continues to be one of supporting authors in developing and improving their submissions to ALT-J through a constructive, iterative process. Our reviewers enable us to do this by providing detailed and considered feedback to authors. Collectively our reviewers have contributed to enhancing the quality of ALT-J, and we are extremely grateful.

This period has seen the transition from our previous submission system to Manuscript Central; this has made compiling a comprehensive list of reviewers challenging, as a consequence we may have missed some, for which we apologise.
